

Date Night: Xylograph Your Xylophone

September 28, 2013 at 6:30 pm–8:30 pm

Forget wine and cheese! The best new pairing in Boston is wine and xylophones! Furniture Maker, Ray Bachand of 60nobscoot has combined two of his exceptional talents – woodworking and music – to create a memorable date-night, girls-night-out, or post-work activity. During the course of the evening each participant will make a xylophone from simple common materials, and learn to play it. If you can count to four you can do it! All experience levels are invited to participate. Of course wine, canapés, and music will help fuel your creative inspiration at the Experience Center of Audio Concepts, located at 870 Commonwealth Avenue in Boston across from Boston University. This event will begin at 6:30 pm. Limited space; reservation required.
