

Sketch Night: Imagining Your Inner City!

September 30, 2014 at 6:30 pm–8:30 pm

Free

Go back to the 'drawing board' with artists and co-curators of the exhibition Artists and Their Sketchbooks: Process Visible. Co-curated by Suffolk University Gallery Director Deborah Davidson and Karl Benner, New England School of Art and Design '14, this event will allow artists, curators and the general public to enjoy an evening of sketching and exchanging ideas inspired by your vision of the ideal city – Utopian or otherwise! Free and open to all. Wine and beer will be served. Bring your own sketchbook.

Artists and Their Sketchbooks: Process Visible explores the rich territory and importance of drawing, especially as a way of thinking and making notation. For centuries, the artist sketchbook (or the writer's notebook) has been a window into the creative process, normally a private enterprise; the artists in the exhibit generously share with the viewer their private musings, observations and development of ideas.

For more information about this event and exhibit, visit www.suffolk.edu/nesad/gallery.

Organizer

Suffolk University

Website

<http://www.suffolk.edu/college/departments/13875.php>

Venue

Suffolk University Gallery
75 Arlington Street
Boston, MA